Any number from four to seven can play, their positions at the table being unimportant. A card is thrown round to each player, face up, and the one receiving the first jack deals the first hand. 2. When four play, the pack consists of twenty-four cards - namely, the ace, king, queen, jack, ten, nine of each suit. When five play, the eights are added; when six play, the sevens are added; and when seven play, the sixes are added. 3. Any player may demand to shuffle the pack, the dealer last.
