Excerpt: . . . quired by ihe parent i, by natural generation, communicated to the chifd. This appetite is a disease; and like many other diseases, is hereditary. Aristotle says, Drunken women bring forth children like unto themselves. Dr. Darwin thus expresses himself, all the diseases arising from drinking spirituous liquors, are liable to become hereditary, even to the third generation, gradually increasing, if the cause be continued, till the family becomes extinct. The celebrated Dr. Caldwell says, By habits of intemperance, parents not only degrade and ruin themselves, but transmit the elements of like degradation and ruin to their posterity. See also, the testimony of Dr. Sewall, in his Pathology of Drunkenness, page 14, and a large accumulation of facts and opinions in the Prize Essay called Bacchus--two works which I commend to the careful study of this plaintiff, and which will teach him that his dram-shop is the gateway of hell, opening the avenues of death to the old and the young. Arid if his learned counsel will con them over, he will be satisfied of the truth of the inuendo he has thrown into fhis part of our Dream, namely, that the plaintiff was engaged in the detestable crime of corrupting the minds and hearts of the youth of this Commonwealth. The Dream also states, that Directly over the place where Wilbar stood, were suspended a skull and cross-bones. Although the counsel who drew the declaration has twice set forth this passage, he has not...
