Gentry, of Tennessee, Vindicating His Course in the Late Presidential Election: Delivered to His Constituents at Franklin, Tennessee, November 20, 1852 Fellow Citizens: I thank you for your presence here to-day. I have requested you to honor me with this audience, that might have an opportunity to vindicate the course which I have deemed it my duty to pursue in the late presidential canvass, both before and after the nomination of General Winfield Scott, as the Whig candidate for the Presidency. I opposed his nomination, and, withheld from him my support after he was nominated. In a speech which I made two days before the Whig National Convention assembled. I announced, that if General Scott should be the Whig nominee I would stand aloof and take no active part in the presidential contest; and I further declared, that if I thought one mans vote, or one mans influence, was necessary to cast the vote of Tennessee for Pierce and King, my voice and my vote should be given to them unhesitatingly....
